

McDonalds

It was 10 million years in the future. We were at NASA in Monster Town, where the monsters made their spaceships! It was beautiful, clean, wonderful and huge. It had no roof and no walls. The floor was made of diamonds, bones and glass. It was very sunny but a bit cloudy too. It was warm and comfortable.

There were four monsters who were busy making a spaceship. Their names were Cockroach 2.0, Poison Dragon, Sam White Princess, and Mr. K.

Cockroach 2.0 smelled like smelly socks. He had a small mouth with scary teeth like a lion. He was gobbling some rubbish.

Poison Dragon had three snake heads and two poisonous tails. He was very annoyed because Cockroach 2.0 kept trying to eat him because he smelled just like curry flavor cup noodles. He was not being helpful with the rocket because he was watching TV.

Sam White Princess was one million years old (her birthday was 1st November 2017). She sounded like a ghost and had hair made of terrible, cold, slimy snakes. She wore a very small crown made of gold, silver, plastic and biscuits.

Lastly, there was Mr. K, who was only one day old. He looked funny because he had a pink, furry spring instead of legs. He was eating a blue-green-purple banana and reading an instruction book.

These monsters were building a rocket because they wanted to shoot their teachers into space. The rocket was gigantic, and made of plastic, diamonds, cup noodles, sticks and pineapples.

“We need some cola, some hamburgers and some fries to fuel the rocket,” whispered Sam White Princess in a quiet, scary voice.

“I’ll go to McDonalds,” said Poison Dragon.

“While you’re in McDonalds, you must collect all of the teachers in Monster Town and bring them here. Hahahahaha!” said Cockroach 2.0. “Oh, and get me some nuggets please,” he added.

So Poison Dragon wrote invitation cards. They said:

“Dear teachers, please come to Sam White Princess’ birthday party. There will be lots of cola and lots of maths homework, presents and balloons. It will be loads of fun and you can give us maths homework and we will give you 100 million coupons so you can eat junk food every day”.

Flying over the town, Poison Dragon threw the invitations to every teacher in Monster Town.

“Great, I will go!”

“Fantastic! I love cola”

“I’ll go to that party and get fat – I can’t wait,” said the teachers.

That night, one thousand teachers (all the teachers in Monster Town) arrived at McDonalds. They were wearing their best Halloween dresses, even the men.

Suddenly, the whole McDonalds began to shake. The teachers felt very scared, and they started to scream. There was a very loud noise: BFFFFFFBFBF.

It turned out that the teachers were not in McDonalds at all! The Monsters had painted their rocket to look like McDonalds. It was red and yellow and had a big yellow 'M' and covered with junk food to fool the teachers. Cockroach 2.0 got distracted and started eating all the junk food.

Meanwhile, Sam White Princess and Poison Dragon were programming the rocket. They wanted it to fly to the moon so that the teachers would make a town there instead and stop bothering the monsters in Monster Town.

However, Mr. K didn't want the teachers to be in trouble.

"Guys, I don't want to kill these teachers. They seem really nice! I've just met some of them and they were really kind, friendly, lovely and polite. I think we should change our plan."

Cockroach 2.0 said, "I agree, I don't want to shoot the rocket off to the moon because I want to eat all the food first. I want the teachers to come back so they can get me even more food."

“Don’t be silly,” said Poison Dragon “we’re going to shoot the teachers to the moon. Teachers...time for you to pray, that’s the only way you’ll be safe!”

Mr. K took away the cola and hamburgers, so the rocket had no fuel and couldn’t go anywhere.

To be continued...